OUR PRINCIPAL

It has been said that school days are a preparation for adult life. This is partly true because school days themselves are an important part of life. Of course, they are also a preparation, just as every part of life is a preparation for the next stage of life, but school days are important for their own sake.

Since life is not always exciting or thrilling, it should not be surprising that your life at Westinghouse had some dull moments. What is important is that your life in school has a good many interesting moments and that it teaches us something at every stage.

There are some students and teachers whom you did not get to know well and who will be only acquaintances. There are some whom you get to know very well and who will be your permanent friends as long as you live. There were some subjects taught you which made little impression upon you, but some subjects influenced your mind and will be a permanent part of your thinking.

Those friendships which were founded here and those subjects which impressed you will help make all of your life worthy of the noblest ideals.

Harry B. Shriger

VICE PRINCIPALS

Midyear marked an administrative change at Westinghouse when Mrs. Helen Faison was appointed principal of Fifth Avenue High School and Mr. William Fisher became vice principal for grades 11–12.

After her graduation, Mrs. Faison taught English and served as girls advisor at Fifth Avenue. Eight years ago she came to Westinghouse, first as counselor, then vice principal. Now she has returned as principal to the school where she taught originally. Because of their great pride in Mrs. Faison's accomplishments, the staff and student body of Westinghouse expressed their affection and appreciation for her in several ways.

Perhaps Mr. Fisher best defined Mrs. Faison's special qualities when he told the students assembled to say farewell to her, "She is a person for whom you have respect simply because of the person she is. Mrs. Helen Faison walks with dignity."

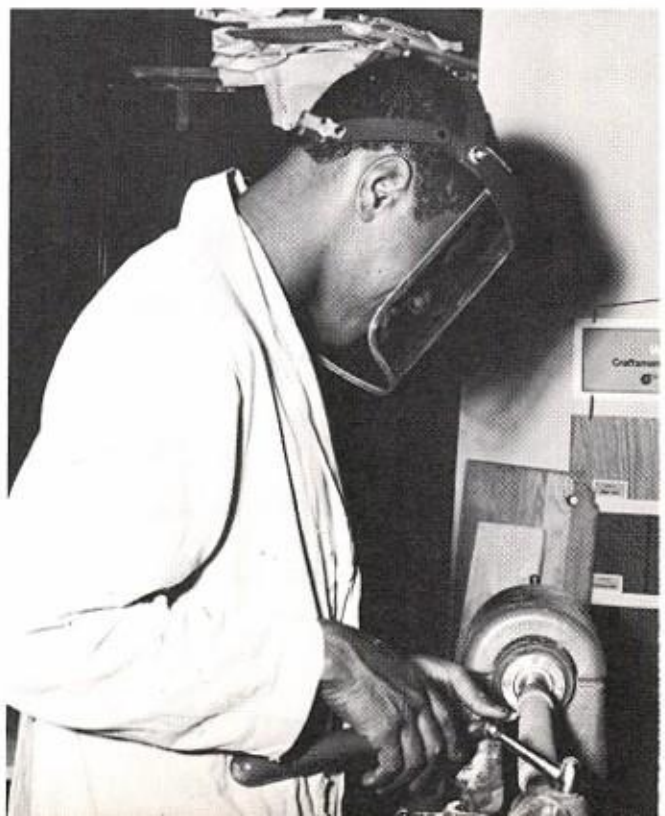
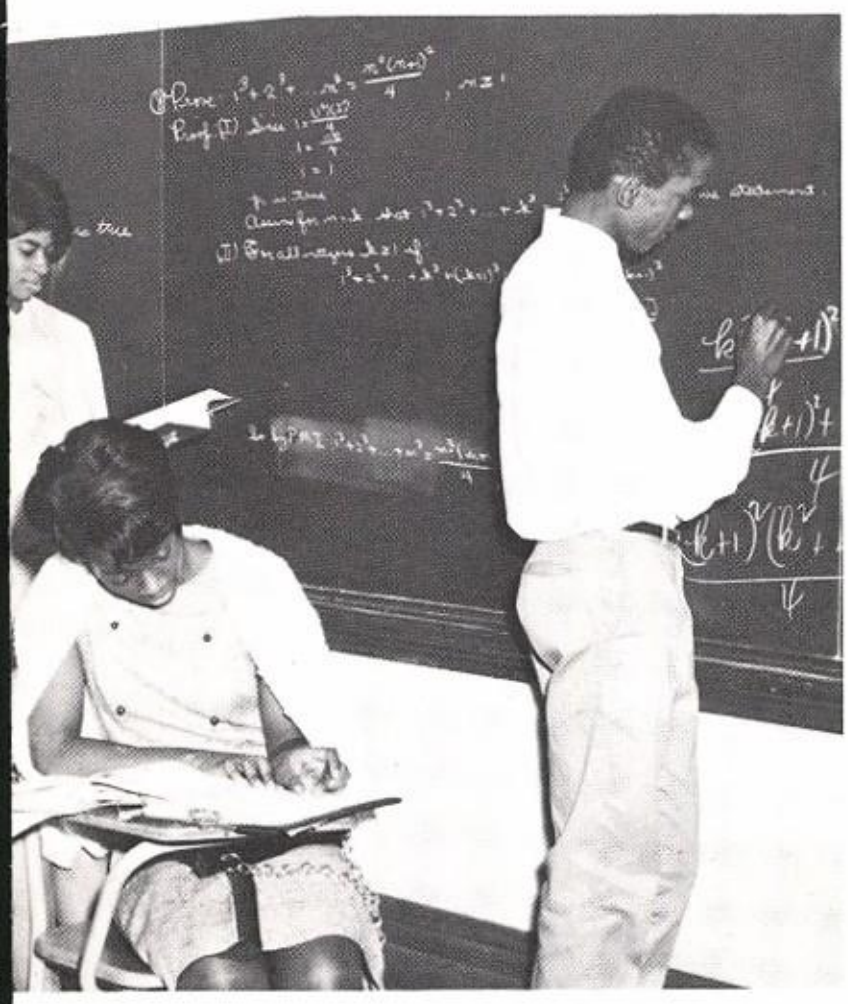
Advanced math problems challenge the mind.

IN THE CLASSROOM

. . . . A lathe, a face shield, another project in carpentry.



Future secretaries compete in a timed transcription.

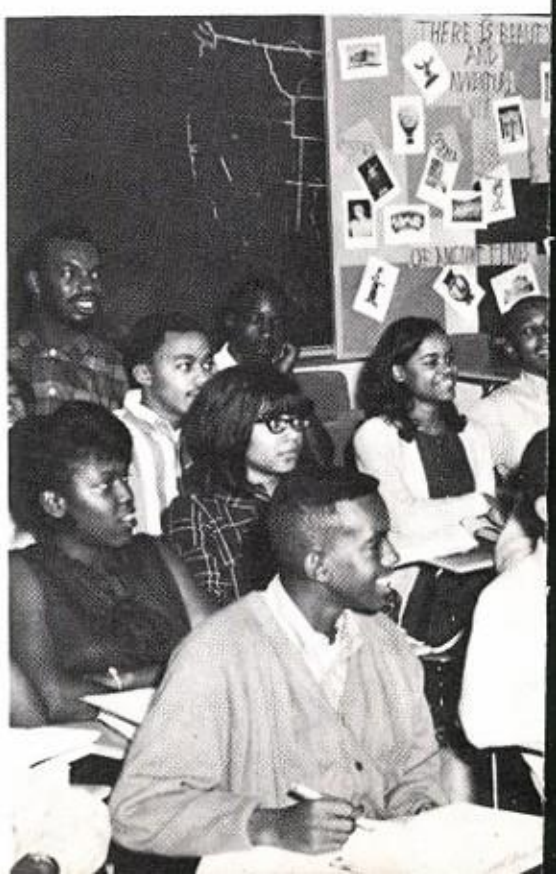


Cash registers ring in distributive education.

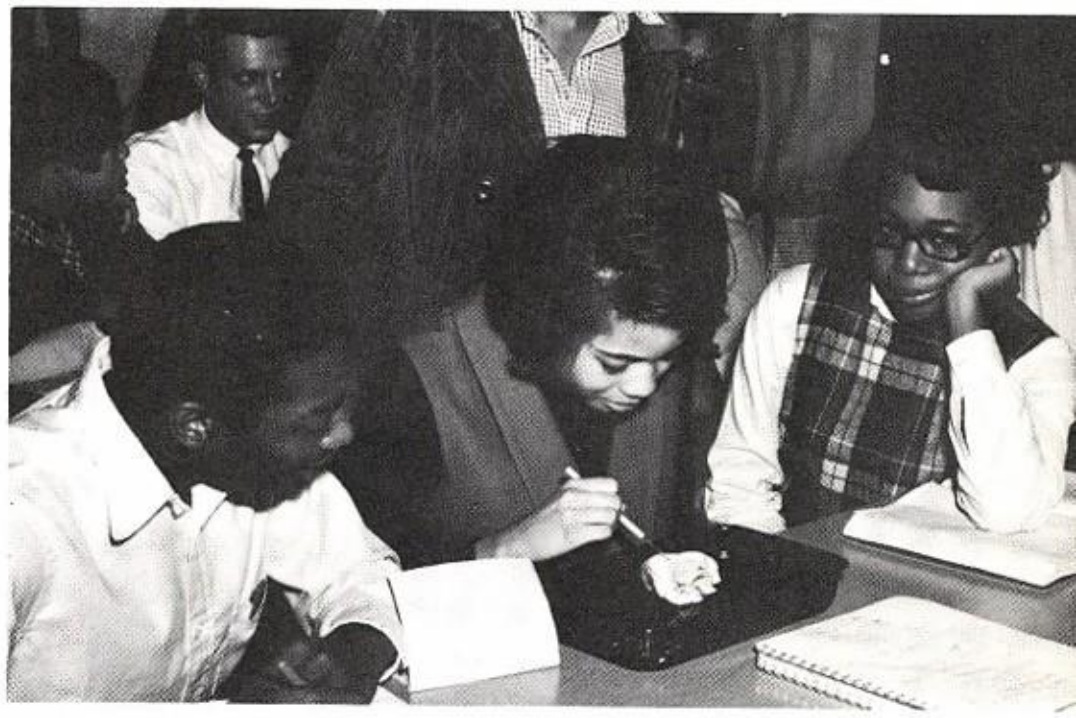
The artistic side of horticulture.

Drama students meet the Vanguard Players after a performance of Elizabeth the Queen.

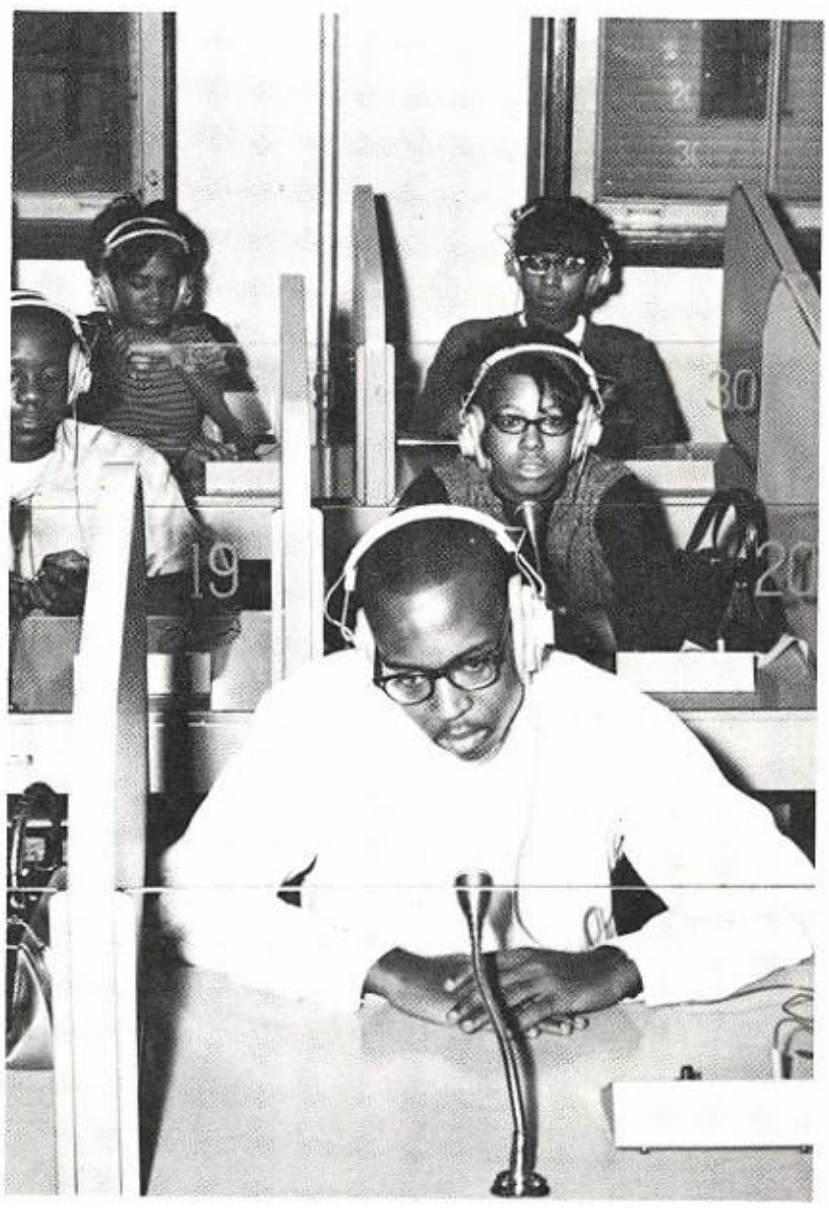
Auto mechanics work on that age old question, "Will it pass state inspection?"



A member of Mr. Beckett's body building brigade.



The human heart holds few mysteries for biology students.



Practicing that accent in the language lab.

"You real----ly mean it?"

AROUND THE "HOUSE"

". . . But this is only thirty times tardy."

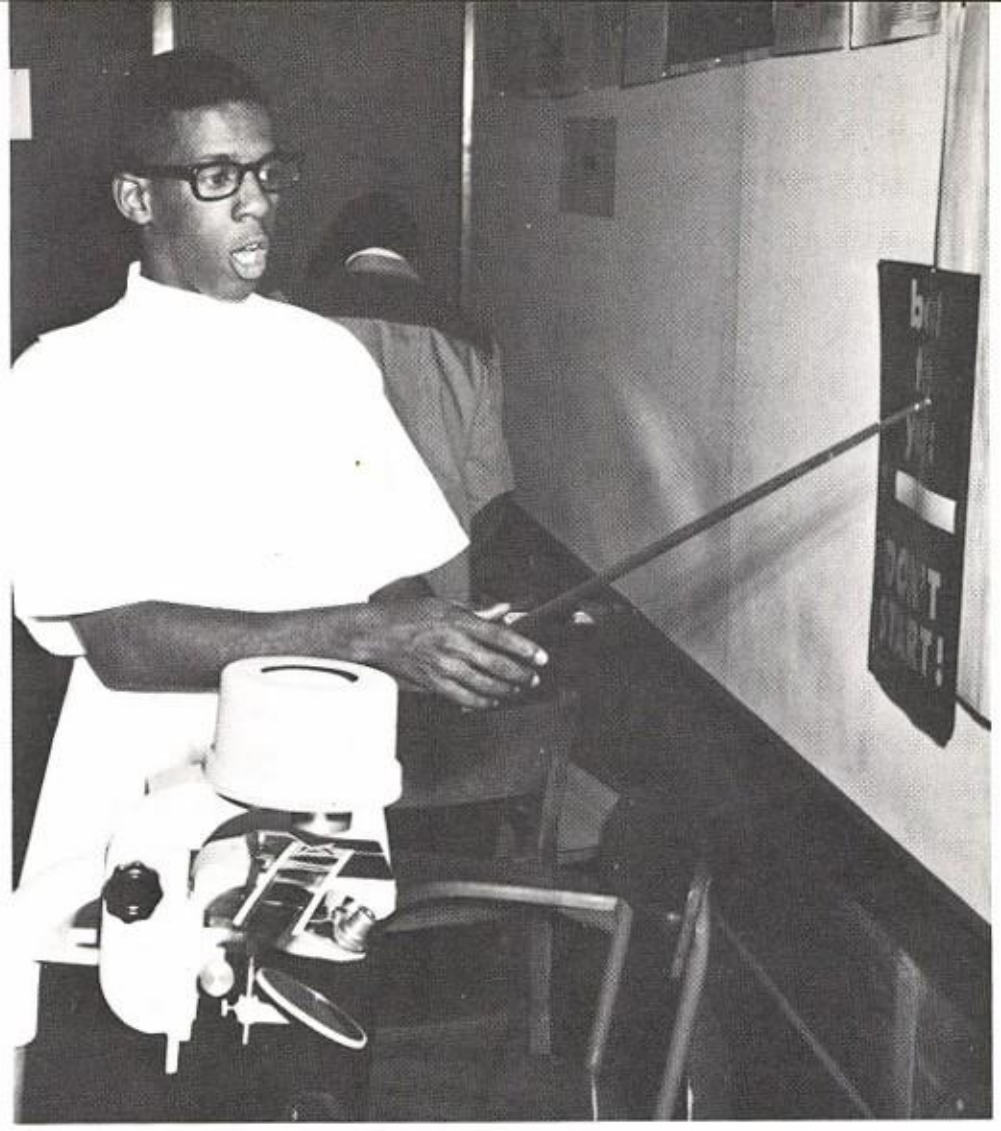
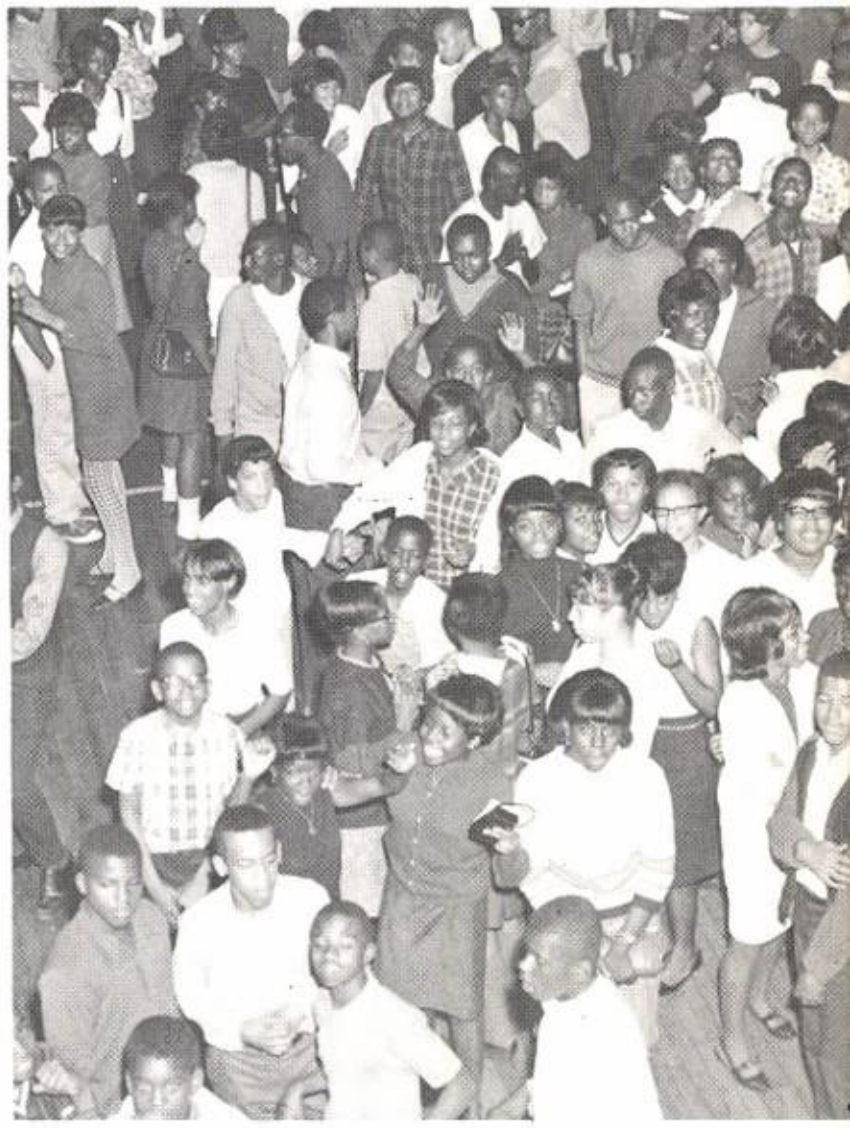
"Welcome to Westinghouse High School, Mr. Fisher!"

"What do you use, Vitalis or Brylcream?"



"Dr. Livingston, I presume."

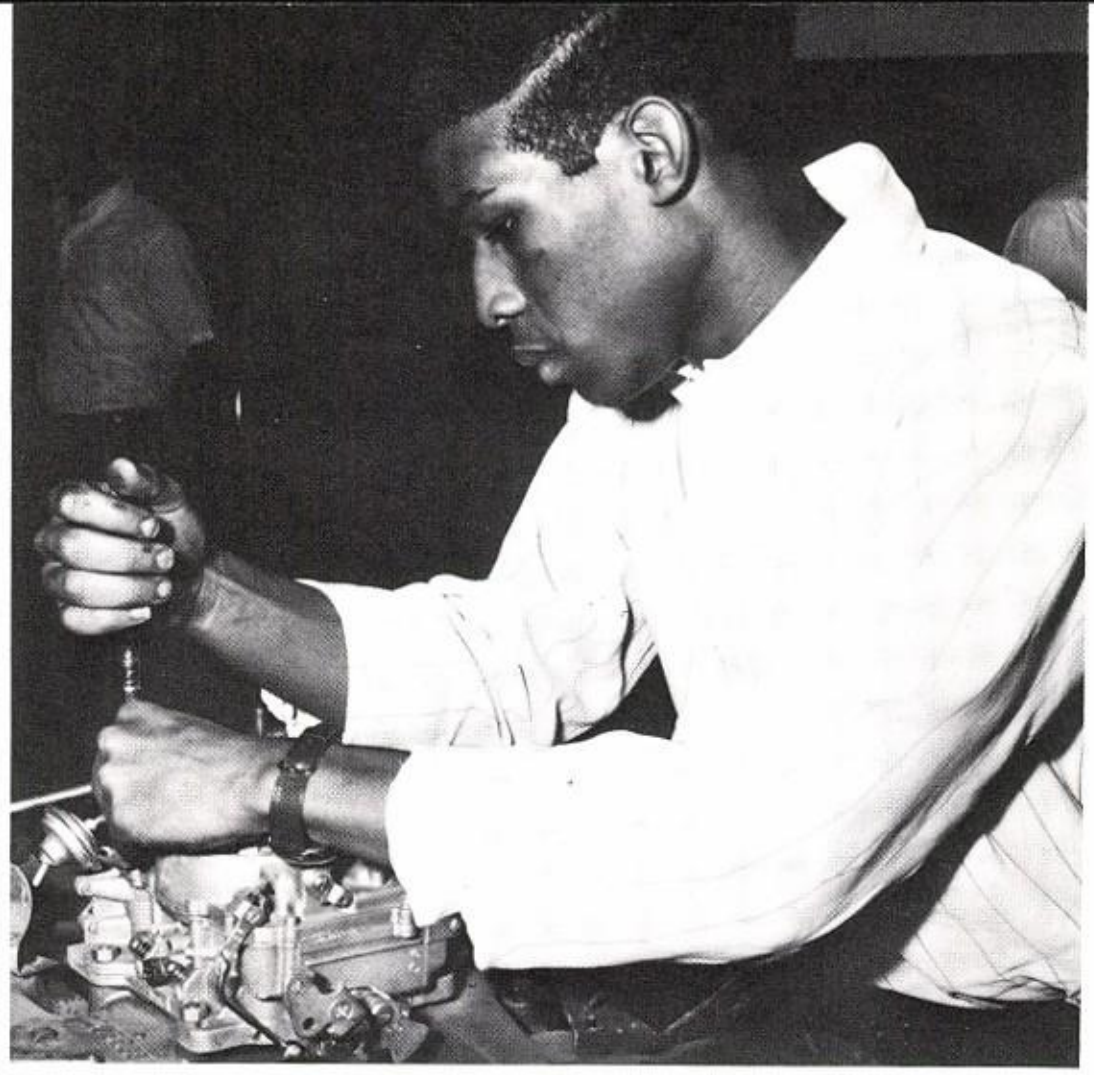
"Eat, drink, and be merry . . ."

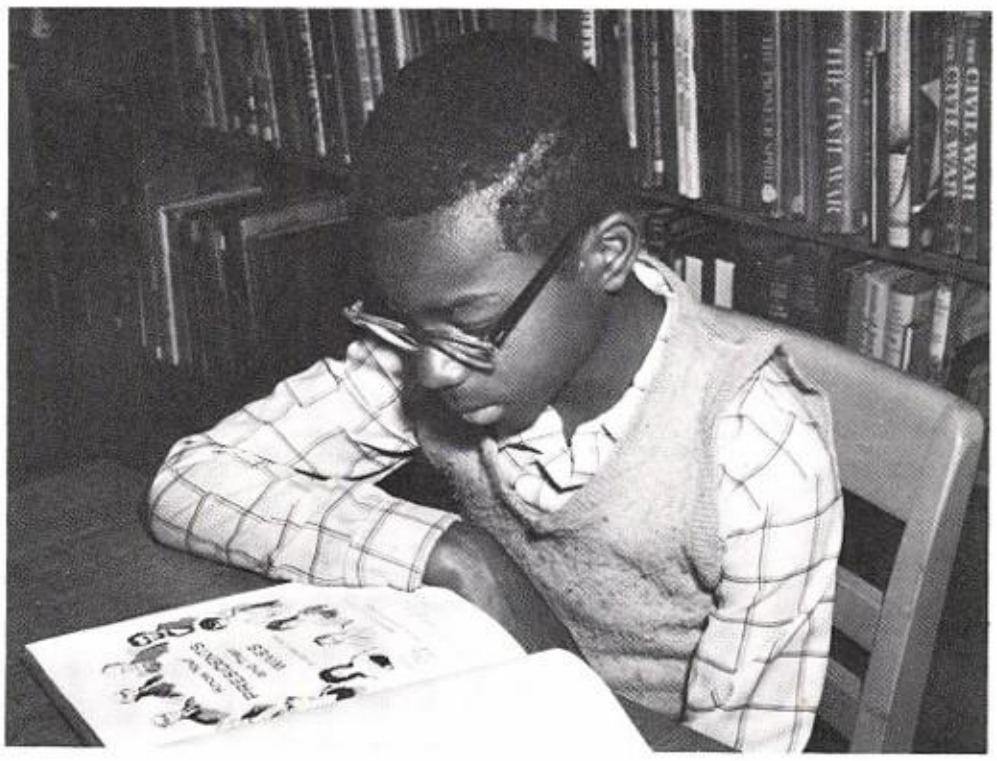


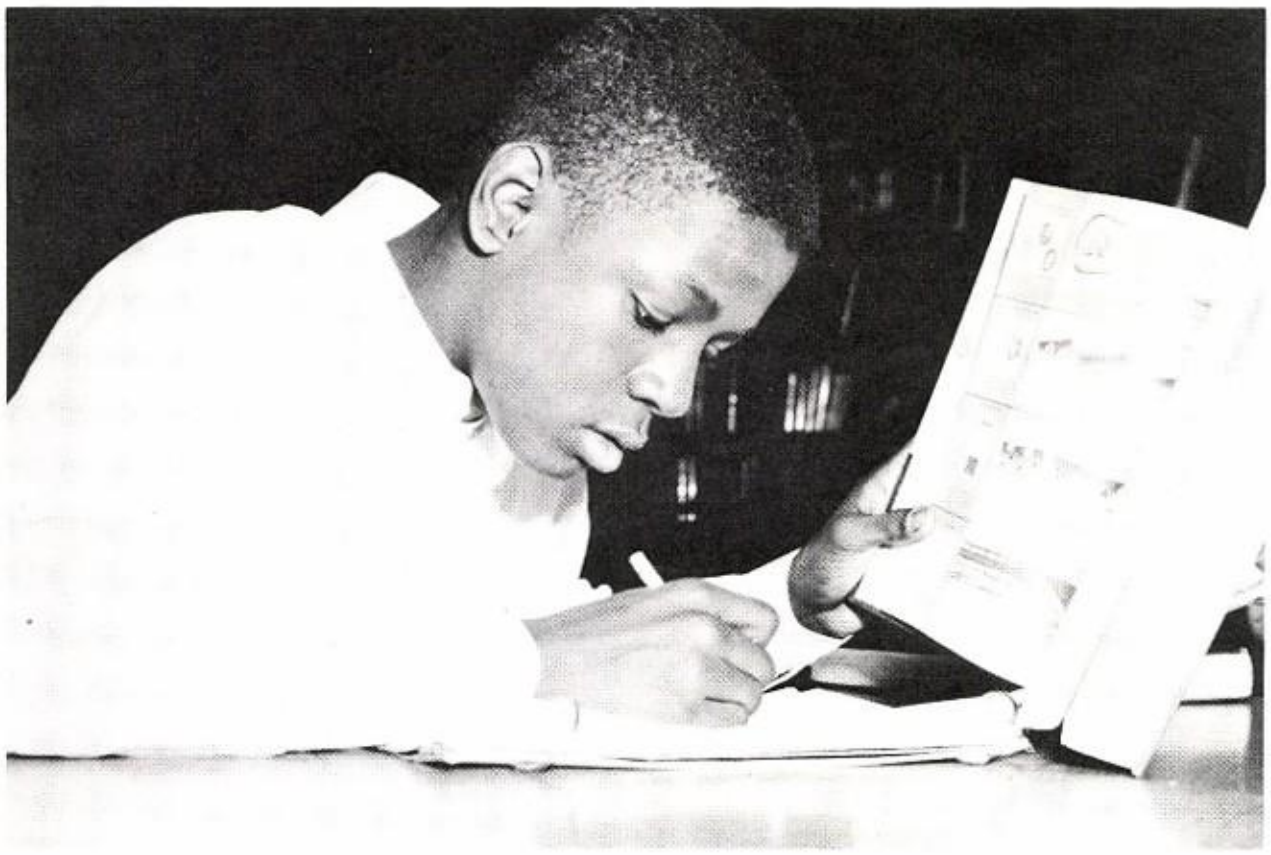
". . . . Just a few friends over."

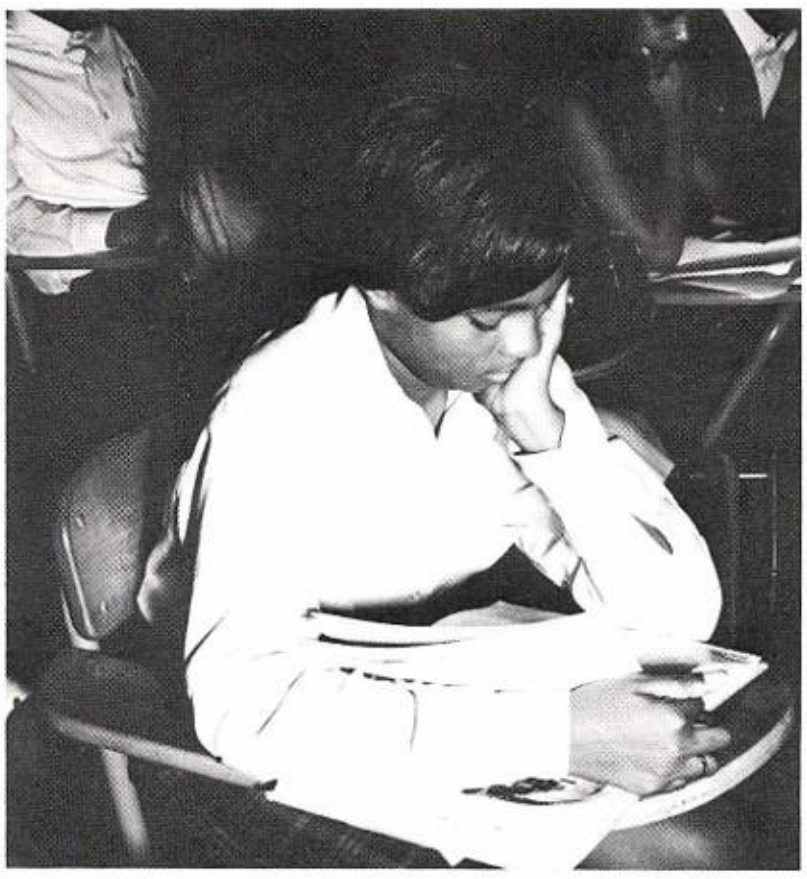
"Say, that really didn't hurt!"

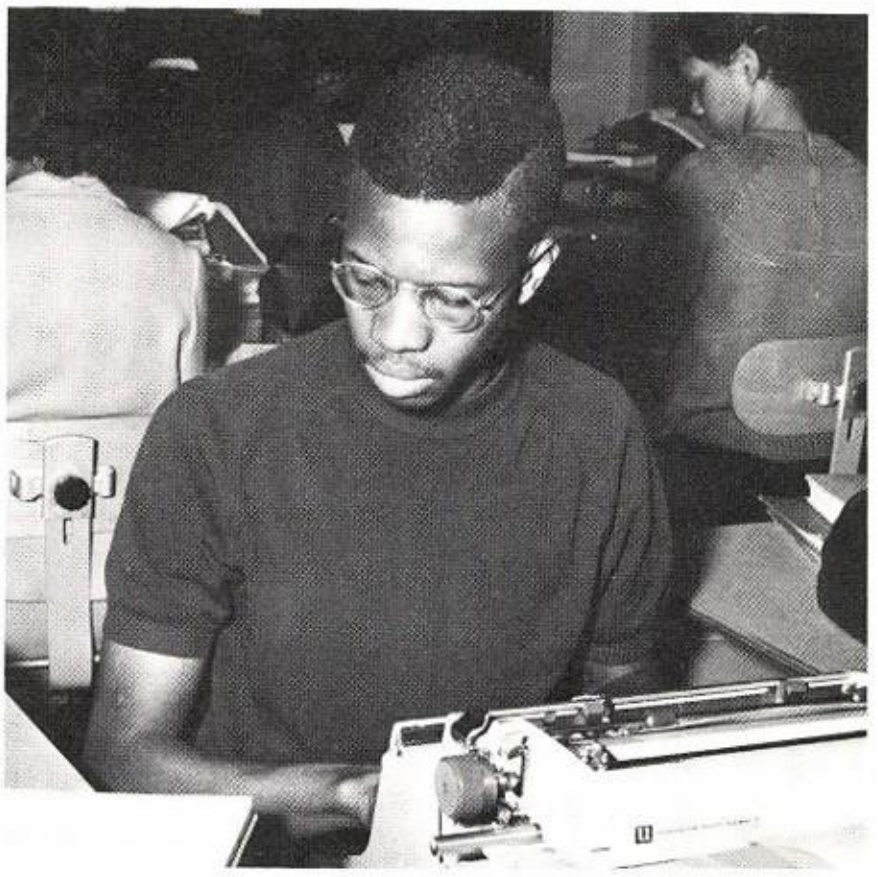
FACES IN REFLECTION

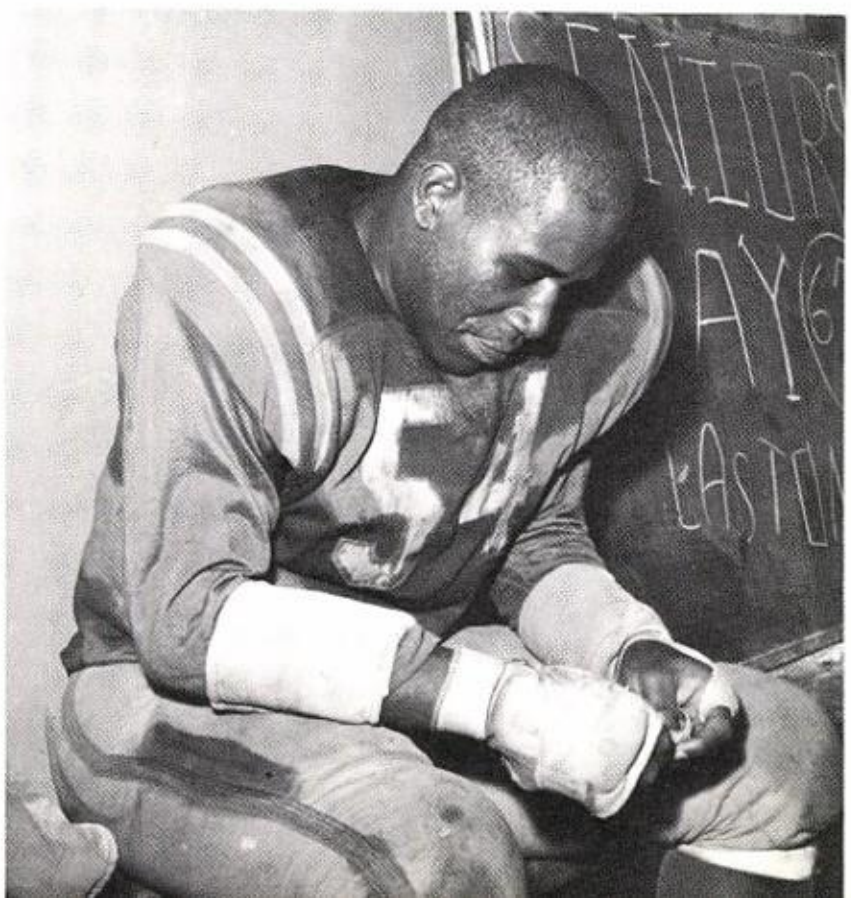


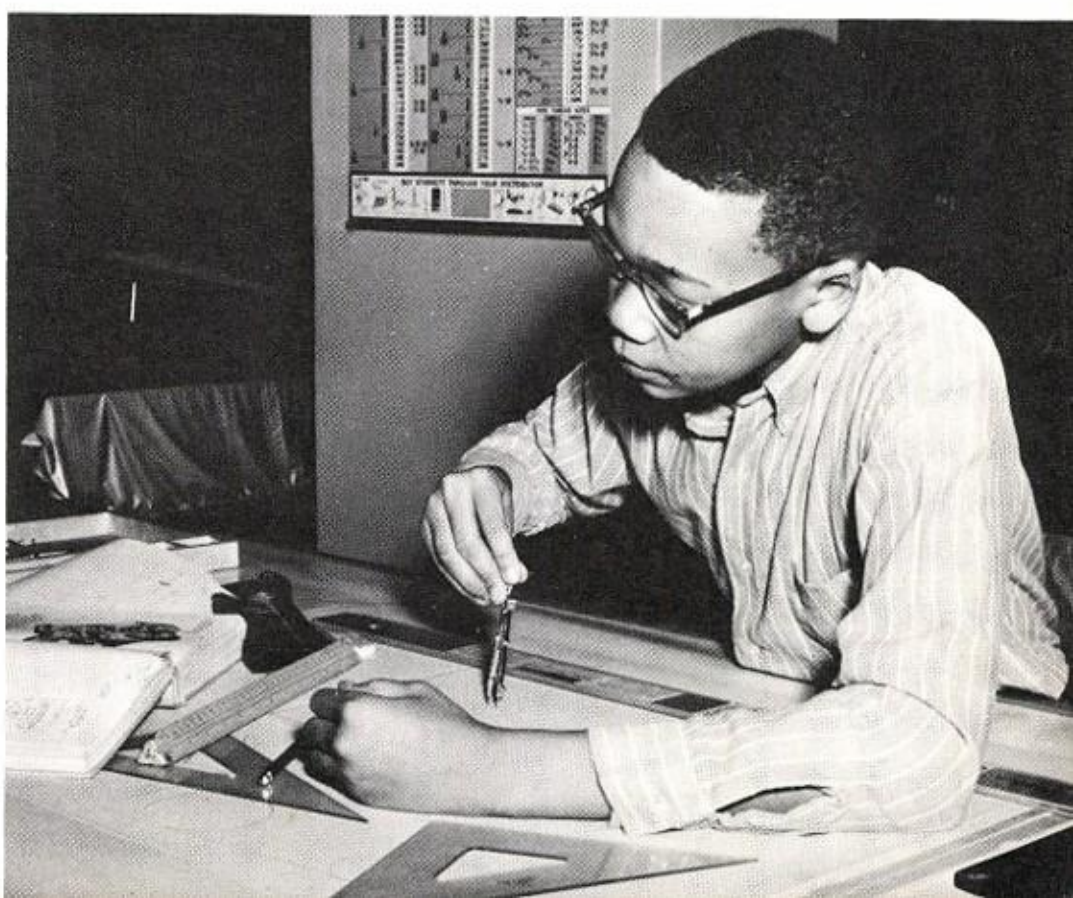












"Destiny leads us to liberty; to freedom!" shouts Marcus Garvey. Sojourner Truth asks, "Just tell me . . . whar did your Christ come from?"

IN WHITE AMERICA

. . . A bare stage . . . folding chairs . . . white make-up . . . With a minimum of scenic illusion, the director and cast of the Senior class play created reality, the reality of 350 years of Negro life "In White America." Historical documents provided the script. Man's injustice and nobility provided the meaning.

STUDENT COUNCIL

. . . Christmas baskets, a new lectern for the auditorium, book scholarships. . . . These are but a few of the projects of the WHS Student Council, an organization whose members experience self-directing privileges under well defined limits. June campaign oratory at an end, Darlene Robinson, president; Preston Moore, vice president; Muriel Jackson, secretary; and Michael Weston, treasurer; worked to establish worthy objectives and significant activities for the 1967–1968 school year. With their help, the Student Council provided a voice for the student body, a voice democratically elected and actively concerned.

STUDENT UNITED NATIONS

. . . The sharp rap of a gavel, a delegate's call, "Point of order," the voices of young people raised in free debate . . . sounds that symbolized the activities of the Westinghouse chapter of the Student United Nations. Under the leadership of Mrs. Anna S. Leifer, the SUN discussed world problems past and present. Through bake sales and a Christmas party, members became friends with a goal, a goal realized by those students who participated in the city-wide General Assembly.

ROBED CHOIR

The scene was a familiar one. The curtains parted. The faces of the audience turned toward center stage as the voices of the Westinghouse Robed Choir rang out melodious and clear. At holiday assemblies and the Spring Festival, in area churches and concert halls, the music, narration, and artistic effects of the choir's performances carried a message of pride and tradition. The talents of the choir, the octet, the thirteen members of All City High School Chorus, and most of all Mrs. Birdie Nichols, director, brought new significance to the saying, "When love and skill work together expect a masterpiece."

"Oh, could you view the melody of every grace

The cadence of the drums signaled the start of half-time as the Westinghouse High School Band and Majorettes high stepped to the rhythm of the "National Emblem March." Director, Mr. Fernand Teulle, drilled his competent group of musicians to perform familiar routines such as the "Hats Off" and the "Westinghouse W." At football games, assemblies, and parades, the band extended the blue-gold spirit to enthusiastic spectators. Year in and year out the members strive to make those familiar words, "Westinghouse Forever," a reality.

SR. ORCHESTRA

The slow, majestic beat of "Pomp and Circumstance" changed to the triumphant recessional, "War March of the Priests," as the last performance of the 1967–1968 Senior Orchestra came to an end. Throughout the year the orchestra directed by Mr. Fernand Teulle participated in the Spring Festival the annual winter orchestra assembly, awards and honors assemblies, and most important to seniors—graduation. Richard Britton, Clarice Bonner, Kenneth Salih, and William Allen represented Westinghouse in the All City High School Orchestra and received private lessons free of charge from the Center for Musically Talented.

And now the "Mississippi Suite" from the top.

"The sense of musical delight, with the power of producing it, is a gift of imagination . . ."

"There is sweet music here . . ."

Junior Orchestra. VIOLIN: R. Flowers, R. Ward, K. Rawlings, V. McAffee, D. Jones, E. Goodson, T. Pride, D. Jenkins, G. Pull, R. Dudley. VIOLA: J. Dorsey, M. Clark. CELLO: J. Brown, P. Miller. JR. ORCHESTRA

Passing students heard snatches of anything from the catchy tune of "Swing Yer Partner" to the South American beat of "Siboney." Under the direction of Mr. Edward Sambol, the Junior Orchestra rehearsed a variety of musical selections chosen for their technical challenge, creative merit, and audience appeal. Performances at WHS Junior High assemblies brought recognition to these hard-working ninth graders.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Realization of the need for an association to serve students interested in becoming teachers led to a newly reorganized club, the Future Teachers of America. Mrs. Katherine Gilbert, advisor, and Rosesharon Sneed, president, guided activities made possible through the contributions of the FTA's national sponsor, the NEA. Club members studied aspects of teaching and received orientation for a career in education.

A deep appreciation of art and a desire to create were the two characteristics found in members of the Westinghouse Art Club. The club composed of over thirty talented students met every Thursday under the sponsorship of Mr. Fred Bissel. During the year, the members visited exhibits such as the International. The giant papier-mâché Santa Claus exhibited in the main hall was just one of the many contributions of the Art Club.

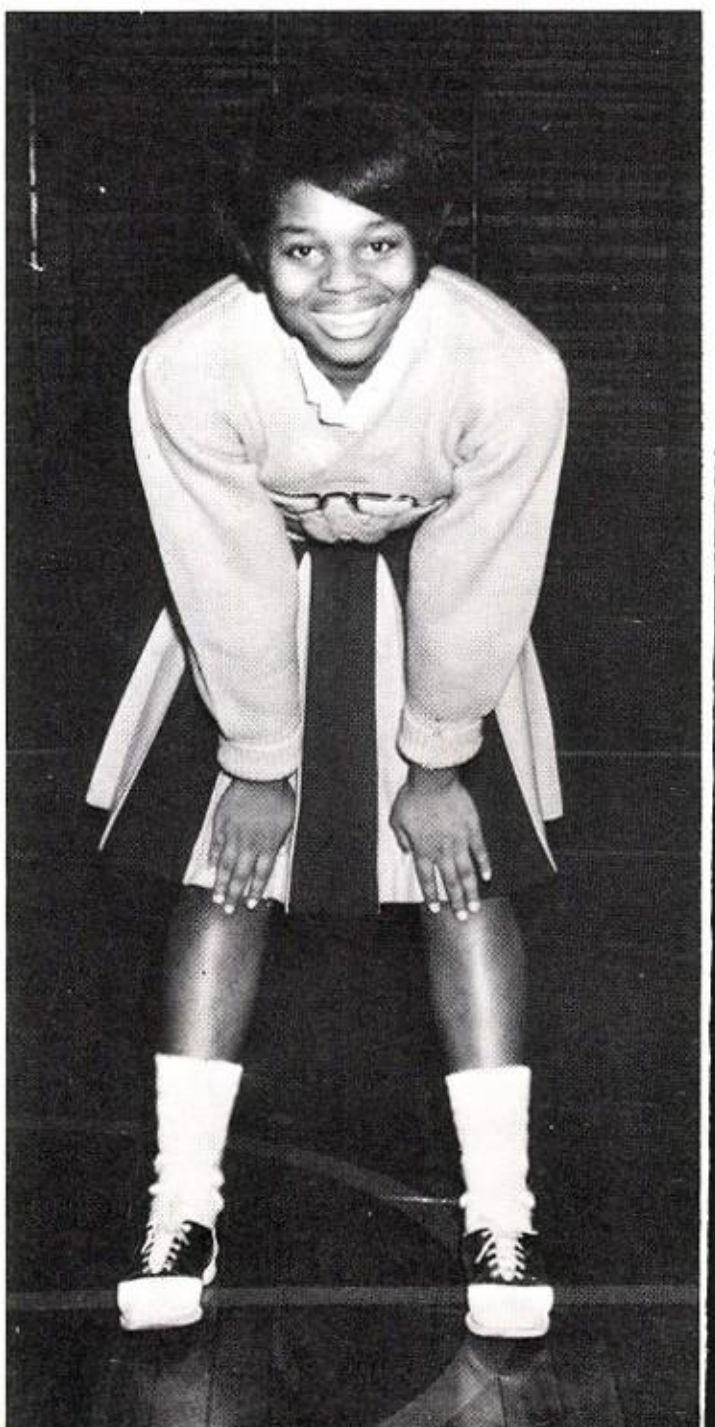
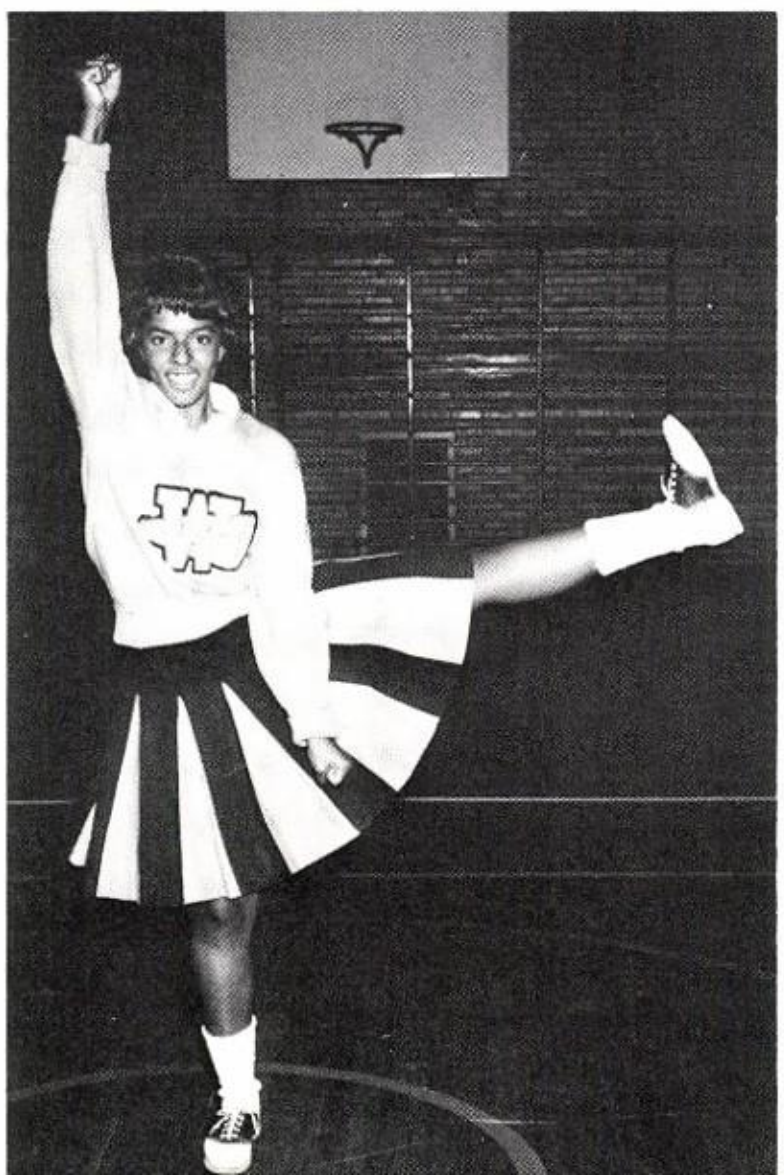
CHEERLEADERS

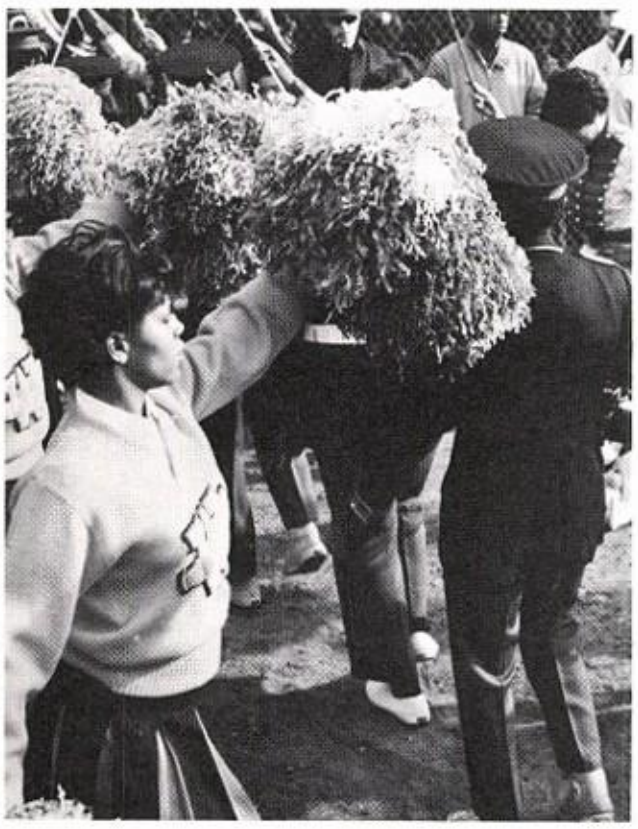
Barbara Wilks





Darlene Robinson

"Get the ball, you all . . . Get the ball!" urge the WHS Cheerleaders.



Hey team! Fight team! This was one of the familiar cries of the cheerleaders as they rooted the Bulldogs on to victory. These girls were the morale boosters for their team throughout the football and basketball seasons. Under the guidance of Miss Dorothy Diznoff, they spent hours of practice to achieve perfection. The cheerleaders aroused the enthusiasm of the student body at pep assemblies held before the games. The tireless effort of the Westinghouse Cheerleaders has not only helped produce a champion team but also a champion cheering section.

Cheerleaders. FRONT ROW: B. Wilks, L. Lewis, D. Branson, M. Jackson, D. Robinson. SECOND ROW: K. Grimes, F. Russell, E. Bush, N. Johnson, E. Walker. ABSENT: C. Staton, G. Minor.

DECA CLUB

Merchandising is their business; learning is their goal. With this thought in mind, the Westinghouse Chapter of the Distributive Education Club of America worked on many interesting projects while learning the fundamentals of advertising, selling, and display. Since DECA is a national organization its members had opportunities to participate in city and state-wide meetings. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Julian Salzman, DECA encouraged junior and senior students to develop their own interests in marketing and distribution through conventions, contests, and chapter projects.

CHESS CLUB

Chess was the name of the game but strategy was the key word in every move. Sponsored by Mr. James Klein, the chess team led by Thomas Covington and Elliott Lewis, first and second boards, exhibited skill in competitive play. Annually the Chess Club competes in the Allegheny County Inter-Scholastic Chess Competition and the Pittsburgh Scholastic Tournament. In the last four years the chess team can boast of capturing first or second place in each of these tournaments.

HORTICULTURE CLUB

Student interest in the preservation of plant life led to the formation of the Westinghouse Chapter of the Junior National Horticulture Club. Sponsored by Mr. Aubry Wilson, the twenty six members under the leadership of President Raymond Bonner participated in field trips and club projects. A trip to Penn State's horticulture exhibit during the university open house highlighted the year.

Sponsored by Miss Barbara Soltesz, the club provided professional and social activities for girls interested in a nursing career. Tag days, a car wash, bake sales, a fashion show helped raise money for educational trips and a June scholarship to be awarded to the most deserving future nurse.

The Travelers "took bag in hand" and with Sponsor Mrs. Anne Leifer, planned visits to such cities as Washington D.C. and New York. The Keystone Travelers, a unique social club, provided its members with the opportunity to visit places of cultural and historic interest. The WHS tourists could be proud of the fact that they earned much of the money for their trips through candy and bake sales.

FOOTBALL

The fabled Westinghouse Bulldogs began their season with a shattering romp over Oliver High. Under the direction of Coach Rudy Musulin, the Bulldogs marched all the way to the championship game. Spirited by the explosive assaults of senior fullback, Mike Weston, and the fleet-footed jaunts of senior halfbacks, Sonny Allen and Willie Anderson, the "House" rolled over eight teams in the newly combined City League. In their only loss of the season, the Bulldogs competed with honor. For it is defeat rather than victory that is the true test of a champion. The 1967 WHS Football Squad exhibited the qualities of school spirit and fair play that are vital allies of sportmanship, the Westinghouse tradition.

BASKETBALL

The year 1968 provided a homecoming for Coach Ed Fleming who returned to Westinghouse High School as the new varsity basketball coach. Throughout the season, the "House Five" turned in many fine performances led by the keen eye of senior sharp-shooter, Bob Brown. With a final league record of 7 wins and 5 losses, this young team can look forward to increased sectional power in the '69 season.

BASEBALL

Under the keen eye and capable leadership of Mr. Charles Beckett, the 1967 Bulldogs had one of their finest seasons. Although the team did not reach championship status, they finished in third place with a 6–4 record. In exhibition play the Bulldogs defeated Central Catholic High, the state champions of the Catholic League, by a score of 11–3. With a large percentage of the squad returning, the "House" should enjoy a very successful 1968 season.

Debbie,
To a real nut whom I've grown to love at P.C.B.
Don't forget the wierd things we've done especially your annual fight with Nancy. Thanks for the good times + the friendship you've given me.
Be good + good luck, Love,
Dianne

Faces and happenings of the past will be reflected in our own individual mirrors. Small triumphs and disappointments will be remembered for their worth. Our years at Westinghouse encompassed perhaps a great deal of labor, perhaps a great deal of happiness.

As we walk forward into the future, we carry away with us memorable experiences. Yet one wonders how dynamic in scope are our mirrors. How much can we see? How vague are the images? We take a journey of a thousand miles or a lapse of twenty years and we find the answers. Faces may be blurred and specifics muddled. Yet the meaning of every experience lives on in our hearts and its imprint remains forever within the frames of our mirrors.

Debbie,
As I look back
at the past three years I realize you have undoubtly become one of my best friends always. Remember our gas parties, our fights (smile)
and the merry comments we shared. May God Bless you & Benny in all that the two of you endevor.
